Inquest of George Chesterman

DR. J. G. MIDDLEMASS, sworn.
Q. You are J.G. Middlemass, and you reside in the town of Wainwright? A. Yes Sir. Q. Just tell us, Doctor, what you know in connection with the matter of the deceased that night Friday night last? A. Do you want the morning? Q. Yes, tell us anything you know in connection with the deceased on Friday last. A. About a quarter to eleven I was on the street, and a gentleman came along. He had a mackinaw on and smoked glasses and when he went by he said "Good Morning." "Where are you hauling your wood now." "I'm not hauling wood but I wonder you don't recognize a person." I turned around sideways and looked at him and got a squint behind his glasses and I recognized who he was. I asked why a good looking man like him was wearing glasses and to take them off, which he did. We stood there talking for about an hour, close on to 12 o'clock. Our conversation was regarding Mr. Bennett's speech the evening previous, and also his travel, while a sailor and the reasons why he came to town, there had been an accident to the threshing machine, and he had brought in the parts to get repaired. It was getting close to twelve o'clock when I left him. In the evening shortly after nine o'clock I had a telephone call to come to the bank, hurry, downstairs. I jumped in the car and went down. I went to the door of the bank and it was locked, then I thought around to the side door. I thought someone said come in. I opened the door and I found in front of me, underneath the desk, was Mr. Plunton and he had a man down. In my line of vision on the floor there were a few drops of blood. I said "What's going on here, what are you scrapping about," or words similar to those. And then I don't know whether it was Mr. Plunton or Mr. Snyder said that Mr. Plunton was stabbed. I leaned down and saw who the man was, it was Mr. Chesterman. Then I think I asked them again what they were scrapping about and I think I said to Mr. Plunton I would let him up, which he did. Mr. Plunton went and leaned over the typewriter desk and Mr. Chesterman went over and leaned on the wall. Mr. Plunton said "He got me, he stabbed me." I looked down at Mr. Chesterman's feet and they were bulging out the boot tops, both legs. I said "What is the matter." He said "Nothing Doctor take care of that man, I'm all right." Mr. Plunton said "Yes, the police will take care of you." Mr. Plunton went to the office, rang up the police but got no answer. It seemed to be weak and coming out of the office. I was walking at his side and had hold of his arm, and just east of the teller's cage Mr. Snyder said something which I did not hear. Mr. Plunton said "Watch out, Dr. he's got a gun. I dropped Mr. Plunton's arm and made two jumps but by this time Mr. Chesterman had fallen down in a heap on the floor and I saw that he had both hands over something in front of his mouth. My intention was to take his elbow and knock the gun from his hands but I was about a second too late, then all Mr. Plunton got upstairs. Is that all you wanted? Q. A previous witness mentioned that Mr. Chesterman had complained about his heart, do you know anything about his physical condition at all? A. It must be two years ago, two or three years ago that he was in to see me and I put it down that he was smoking too many cigarettes. Q. You had considerable conversation with him when he was in town on Friday before this matter occurred. Was there anything peculiar about him at all? A. No Sir. Q. Did he talk like an insane man? A. No Sir. Q. Discuss any of his worries or troubles that might upset him? A. No Sir, the only thing I asked him if he had heard Bennett's speech, he said Mr. Bennett was in favor of the international bankers, the manufacturers, he was practically taking care of them, and the poor farmer had to take what was left. Q. Have you seen these things before (Revolver, Exhibit "A")? Hunting knife, Exhibit "B"? A. I think that is the revolver, it looks like it or one similar. Q. Did you ever see this (Exhibit "B") before? A. Yes. W. PIGEON, sworn.

Q. Your name is William Pigeon and you reside in the town of Wainwright? A. Yes Sir. Q. You knew the deceased George Chesterman? A. Yes Sir. Q. When did you last see him alive? A. Friday about 11 o'clock or shortly after. Q. Tell us anything you observed in connection with him, what conversation you had or anything that might be of interest to the jury. A. I had no conversation with him at all on Friday last, I just had him Good-day as I passed. Q. Had you any previous conversation recently with him? A. Yes I did, when I went out collecting taxes for the municipality. Q. Did he show any mental disturbance? A. I told him what I was there for he kind of gave to understand that he was up against it and could not pay the taxes. I asked him if he would sign an understanding to give the municipality a portion of the grain as protection. He said he would not, that he had signed his last paper, that the bank manager had got all he owned. He said the son of a bitch has got me. I told him how he brought the paper on for him to sign. Said he did not have his glasses with him, and when he got home and read this paper he signed his farm away. He said this in the presence of his wife and his son. Q. About what time did he say this, do you remember the date? A. I could get you the date by going into Mr. Horn's office but I could not give it to you off hand about five weeks ago I should judge. Q. Did he say anything else? A. That is practically all he said in connection with the debt. Q. You don't know of anything else in connection with the deceased that would be of interest to the Jury or the Court? Q. You are the man's mental condition or anything? A. No Sir. Q. Did he act like an insane man at that time? A. No he talked very normal, he seemed rational enough at that time.

GERMANY SEES THE FUTILITY OF TALK OF WAR

Frankfurt-On-Main, Germany.—A

disarmed Germany wants peace. Peace echoes through strident radio appeals, through headlines and newspaper propaganda. It dominates the proclamation published all over the nation with which Chancellor Adolf Hitler urges support of this policy in the coming plebiscite.

And talking to the average man one hears little of war. The possibilities of an early war are dismissed for two reasons: First, Germany realizes she would certainly be defeated, and second; the Hitler regime is only at the outset of its development.

If he is to retain power, Hitler must make his domestic policies effective.

The writer travelled with a young Nazi storm trooper through almost the entire length of the demilitarized Rhine zone, which extends westward from about 30 miles east of the Rhine. Hitler's storm troops are not usually noted for humility but he was smilingly frank over the prospect.

"It wouldn't be a war," he laughed. "It would be a walk-over. In our storm section we have no war. We say that if the French bombing planes come, well they will have to come, that's all. We can't prevent them."

Holland Importing Nickel

Speculation At Ottawa As To Whether Germany Can Do It

Ottawa, Ont.—Speculation over the large shipments of Canadian Nickel to the Netherlands and whether it is finding its way to Germany for armament manufacture, has been aroused by export figures for the first six months of the year.

The Netherlands, through the port of Rotterdam, has taken six times as much Canadian Nickel in oxide and three times as much fine nickel in the first six months of 1933 as in the corresponding period in 1932, according to the figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Rotterdam is a port used extensively by German importers.

There is no word here of governmental action to curb the nickel export trade although it is realized that Canadian nickel is going directly into the production of the weapons with which a European war now appearing to be so near will be fought.

Europe is armed with a furious speed and one of the essential means to arm is coming from Canadian mines. Cabinet ministers and senior government officials here decline to comment on the new development. It is explained that so far the purchases of nickel have been carried on by private companies without known governmental assistance.

Fruit For The West

Forty Carloads Of Fruit And Vegetables For The Needy

Toronto, Ont.—Forty carloads of fruit and vegetables have been designated for western Canada from the east by the national relief committee of the United Church of Canada this fall, with other shipments to be planned in the next few weeks.

Thirty-seven carloads from Ontario centres and three from Nova Scotia make up the total to date. Of these, 38 carloads have been designated to Saskatchewan and two to southwestern Manitoba. Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan are also shipping carloads of vegetables to needy districts.

Test Case Again Dismissed
 Windsor, Ont.—Archie G. Gignac, Sandwich West township solicitor, was acquitted for the second time on a charge of unlawful establishment and operation of a radio set in his home. The case is regarded as a test of Dominion Government legislation imposing a tax on radio receiving sets.

Utterly Against War
 Washington.—President Roosevelt said in an address to the nation that no threat to world peace emanates from the United States, for "we are overwhelmingly against war," and as a nation "we are seeking no additional territory at the expense of our neighbors."

Veteran Mountie Dead
 Charlottetown.—Sergt. Malcolm Martin Macintosh, 89, one of the original 73 men in the Royal North West Mounted Police, now the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is dead here. He enlisted at Toronto in 1873 and was pensioned in 1898.

Support Stand Of Simon

Says Foreign Secretary Spoke For British Government

Liverpool, Eng.—Viscount Halifax, secretary of war, said the government fully supports Sir John Simon in the stand the secretary for foreign affairs took on disarmament last week in Geneva.

"There is something I ought to say because the foreign secretary is hardly able to say it for himself," Viscount Halifax said in a speech.

The foreign secretary, in what he did at Geneva, was not speaking personally, or individually, but as a representative of the British government with the assent of his colleagues.

Sir John and Foreign Minister Von Neurath of Germany, have questioned each other's statements as to developments at Geneva last week. Baron von Neurath maintained Sir John misrepresented the German arms viewpoint to the United States, and the British has offered to publish documents to disprove the accusation.

Visits Downing Street

Lindbergh Calls At Residence Of Ramsay MacDonald

London, Eng.—The mystery surrounding the visit of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to England reached Downing Street when the aviator walked arm-in-arm from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's official residence with J. H. Thomas, the Dominions Secretary.

It was understood Mr. Thomas met Lindbergh at a hotel and took him to No. 10, where they remained 20 minutes.

Downing Street secretaries said they knew nothing of a meeting between the premier and the aviator and pointed out the prime minister was engaged in a committee session.

This was the first report of Lindbergh's whereabouts since he inspected Croydon airport after his arrival recently with Mrs. Lindbergh from an air tour of northern European and Atlantic countries.

Motor Car Of Future

Radical Departure From Conventional Lines Is Predicted

Toronto, Ont.—The motor car of the future, will have three wheels, two at the front and one at the rear. The motor will also be the rear, according to Frank S. Spring, of Detroit, in discussing transportation of the future before the Canadian Society of Automotive Engineers here.

It was not possible to design a perfectly stream-lined car with four wheels, he said. Another revolution in design would be the placing of the two front wheels outside the body proper. Cutting down wind resistance depended upon reducing the frontal area of a car and this could not be done if the wheels had to be included in the front width of the body design.

He predicted engineers would soon have a car that could take off and fly.

Enforcing Blue Eagle Laws

President Roosevelt Issues Order Covering Compliance With Regulations

Washington.—A two-edged executive order designed to force compliance with the blue eagle provisions of the presidential agreement was issued by President Roosevelt.

The order called for a fine of $500 and six months' imprisonment for any person falsely representing himself to be operating under the agreement or displaying the blue eagle insignia while not complying with its provisions.

The president's order, issued under specific authority of the industrial law, also authorized Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, to prescribe further rules amplifying those laid down by the chief executive.

Edmonton-Jasper Highway

Proposal Made To Complete All-Weather Road

Edmonton, Alberta.—A proposal which will mean completion of an all-weather highway from Edmonton to Jasper has been made to the Dominion by the provincial government.

This announcement was made recently by Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works.

The offer is that the province is prepared to supply equipment for federal gravel camps along the highway this winter if the Dominion will give assurance that it will place the 37 miles of grade east of the park boundary in shape to receive gravel as soon as weather conditions permit next year.

Germany Demands Equality

Chancellor Hitler Says His Country Will Not Be Treated As Second Class Nation

Berlin, Germany.—Chancellor Hitler proclaimed that Germany will participate in no conference or agree to no convention "as long as she is not treated equally."

As if to still reports abroad that the reich may return to the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, the chancellor in a speech to his followers maintained:

"Germany is determined in the future to attend no conference, enter no league, agree to no convention, and sign nothing as long as she is not treated equally."

He bid for the co-operation of his enemies at home and issued a slogan for the reichstag election campaign the sentence, "We simply refuse to be treated as a second class nation!"

Conscience Money

Federal Arbitrator Returns $25 To Dominion Treasury

Toronto, Ont.—In a special dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent, The Mail and Empire tells of a former federal arbitrator from Winnipeg who returned $25 to the Dominion treasury, explaining the money was a fee received some years ago for acting on an arbitration board.

According to the newspaper, the man declared he had taken no time off from his job when he acted as an arbitrator and therefore he now desired to return the fee as his acceptance of it did not harmonize with the teachings of the Oxford group which he had just joined.

MUSSOLINI FOR UNITED FRONT ON DISARMAMENT

Geneva, Switzerland.—Premier Mussolini of Italy was credited with indefatigable efforts to unite four European powers, including Germany, in a discussion of disarmament at Stresa, Italy.

At the same time information from Bern, the Swiss capital, indicated a determination to safeguard Swiss neutrality in the event the peace of Europe was threatened.

The report reached here that the Italian leader had asked other powers regarding the feasibility of further conversations on disarmament.

Poland was said to have been asked whether she would approve such a project and to have replied that she wants all the problems considered at Geneva.

London, Eng.—The full cabinet of 19 ministers deliberated for two hours over the situation arising from Germany's precipitate abandonment of the world disarmament conference.

It was understood the ministers reached no decision on the subject of future policy and the stand to be taken when the arms conference resumes at Geneva. The necessary conversations with other powers are still in progress.

It was learned, however, the cabinet was in full agreement with the stand taken by Sir John Simon, secretary for foreign affairs, in his controversy with Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the German foreign minister, who charged Sir John misrepresented Germany's arms demands to the United States.

A SCENE FROM THE SENSATIONAL REICHSTAG TRIAL

One of the most sensational trials of modern times, that of the five men accused of being concerned in the burning down of the Reichstag at Leipzig, Germany. The central figure, Martinus Van der Lubbe, the young Dutchman, who caused a sensation by his insane laughter, hunger strike and "confession," is shown in the picture standing with his wrists manacled while being questioned by the court.

He was born in Allentown, Pa., educated in New York City and at New York and Yale Universities. After taking his B.P.H. degree at Yale, he became instructor in chemistry, geology and mineralogy there.

In 1905 Mr. Miles relinquished tutorial work to engage in mining activities. He was a former president of the Ontario Mining Association.

St. Lawrence Waterway
 Reported Roosevelt Will Press For Ratification Of Treaty

Washington.—Proponents of the St. Lawrence waterway read into the selection of Colonel Edward M. Markham as chief of United States army engineers a decision by President Roosevelt to press for ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada at the next session of congress.

January 5 is set as the congress reconvening date.

Markham was elevated to major-general over several ranking officers, this coming after a study by high government officials of the engineer's reports to the state department on the Great Lakes-Atlantic seaway as a member of the Canadian-American joint engineering board.

Plan To Put Limit On High Salaries In U.S.
 Washington.—Action to limit high salaries of big business leaders in the United States was privately forecast in official circles after the federal trade commission announced it was asking 2,000 companies to furnish data on the salaries of their executives and directors.

Following President Roosevelt's inquisitive glance at movie salaries, the commission's inquiry was described in informed circles as a prelude to more definite action.

The senate resolution instigating the inquiry ordered the federal reserve board to obtain salary data from all member banks in the reserve system, directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to report salaries paid by banks borrowing from it and instructed the federal power commission to learn about the compensation of public utility officials.

While no investigation has yet been formulated, some officials expressed the belief that continuous publication of salaries probably would have the effect of keeping them down.

A ruling by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that no public money would be loaned to railroads whose executives were receiving $100,000 and over a year unless they cut their pay soon brought the compensation of three men all well known in the railroad field down to the maximum allowed—$60,000.

Strikingly large salaries are now being paid to life insurance heads, according to Alfred M. Best & Co., insurance reporters, who estimate that the average president's salary of the large companies is $135,000 per year.

End Strike
 One Stratford Firm Reported To Have Reached Settlement

Stratford, Ont.—First sign of cleavage of the deadlock which has existed between 600 striking Stratford furniture workers and their employers appeared when it was officially announced the workers at the Preston-Noelting Company—one of the largest affected by the strike—and the union had reached an amicable settlement.

The announcement in the form of a formal statement, was handed out by James Preston, president of the firm, after he had been in conference with the shop committee.

Labor Party Gains In Norway
 Recent Elections Give Them Twenty-two New Seats

Oslo, Norway.—A platform of unemployment relief and opposition to disarmament has carried the Labor Party to big gains in the Norwegian political picture.

Labor emerged from the elections in which 18 parties competed for votes with 22 new seats in parliament and a total of 69.

Conservatives, who lost 10 seats, retained 31; the Liberals, losing nine, 24, and the Agrarians, losing three, 22.

Selective Reciprocity
 Victoria, B.C.—The best thing Prime Minister Bennett could do for British Columbia would be a reciprocity treaty with the United States affecting lumber, fish and copper, stated T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, in an address. "This," he said, "would bring back 65 per cent of our lumber market, put more money in our fishermen's pockets and revive the copper mining industry."

Canadian Legion Convention
 Ottawa, Ont.—A Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion, to be held "as soon as convenient" and during the next session of parliament, has been decided on by the executives of that organization who have been in session in Ottawa during the past few days. Probabilities are that the convention will take place in Ottawa in January or February.

HEADS COMMERCE

"Royal Scot" Had Engine Trouble

Alkali Water Clogging Flues Was Blamed For Delay

Pueblo, Colo.—The "Royal Scot" could not take it.

Britain's most famous train was towed into Pueblo five hours late. Known abroad as the train that is never late, the "Royal Scot's" engine developed trouble near Eads, Colo. The gradual rise toward the continental divide begins near Eads.

Those in charge of the train said alkali water placed in the locomotive in Kansas and the kind of coal which was used had been the cause of the locomotive's trouble. They said the front end of the engine became stopped up, the firebox was clogged with clinkers and the flue sprang leaks.

The train left under its own power for Denver, where it will be put on exhibition. A great amount of time of engine was following to give it a boost if any more trouble developed.

The delay, the crew said, was the first in the train's 70 years of operation.

Central Manitoba Mines President Dies Suddenly

Suffers Heart Attack On Train En Route To Toronto

Winnipeg, Man.—En route to his home in Toronto, A. D. Miles, president of Central Manitoba Mines, Limited, and a former managing director of the International Nickel Company, died aboard a Canadian Pacific Railway train October 17.

Stricken with a heart attack, Mr. Miles was dead when medical aid was obtained at Whittemouth, Man. He had appeared in excellent health when he left here early in the evening, associates said.

For many years Mr. Miles had been associated with mining and industrial enterprises in eastern Canada.

Mrs. Miles, living in Toronto, survives.

He was born in Allentown, Pa., educated in New York City and at New York and Yale Universities. After taking his B.P.H. degree at Yale, he became instructor in chemistry, geology and mineralogy there.

In 1905 Mr. Miles relinquished tutorial work to engage in mining activities. He was a former president of the Ontario Mining Association.

St. Lawrence Waterway
 Reported Roosevelt Will Press For Ratification Of Treaty

Washington.—Proponents of the St. Lawrence waterway read into the selection of Colonel Edward M. Markham as chief of United States army engineers a decision by President Roosevelt to press for ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada at the next session of congress.

January 5 is set as the congress reconvening date.

Markham was elevated to major-general over several ranking officers, this coming after a study by high government officials of the engineer's reports to the state department on the Great Lakes-Atlantic seaway as a member of the Canadian-American joint engineering board.

Plan To Put Limit On High Salaries In U.S.
 Washington.—Action to limit high salaries of big business leaders in the United States was privately forecast in official circles after the federal trade commission announced it was asking 2,000 companies to furnish data on the salaries of their executives and directors.

Following President Roosevelt's inquisitive glance at movie salaries, the commission's inquiry was described in informed circles as a prelude to more definite action.

The senate resolution instigating the inquiry ordered the federal reserve board to obtain salary data from all member banks in the reserve system, directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to report salaries paid by banks borrowing from it and instructed the federal power commission to learn about the compensation of public utility officials.

While no investigation has yet been formulated, some officials expressed the belief that continuous publication of salaries probably would have the effect of keeping them down.

A ruling by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that no public money would be loaned to railroads whose executives were receiving $100,000 and over a year unless they cut their pay soon brought the compensation of three men all well known in the railroad field down to the maximum allowed—$60,000.

Strikingly large salaries are now being paid to life insurance heads, according to Alfred M. Best & Co., insurance reporters, who estimate that the average president's salary of the large companies is $135,000 per year.

End Strike
 One Stratford Firm Reported To Have Reached Settlement

Stratford, Ont.—First sign of cleavage of the deadlock which has existed between 600 striking Stratford furniture workers and their employers appeared when it was officially announced the workers at the Preston-Noelting Company—one of the largest affected by the strike—and the union had reached an amicable settlement.

The announcement in the form of a formal statement, was handed out by James Preston, president of the firm, after he had been in conference with the shop committee.

Labor Party Gains In Norway
 Recent Elections Give Them Twenty-two New Seats

Oslo, Norway.—A platform of unemployment relief and opposition to disarmament has carried the Labor Party to big gains in the Norwegian political picture.

Labor emerged from the elections in which 18 parties competed for votes with 22 new seats in parliament and a total of 69.

Conservatives, who lost 10 seats, retained 31; the Liberals, losing nine, 24, and the Agrarians, losing three, 22.

Selective Reciprocity
 Victoria, B.C.—The best thing Prime Minister Bennett could do for British Columbia would be a reciprocity treaty with the United States affecting lumber, fish and copper, stated T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, in an address. "This," he said, "would bring back 65 per cent of our lumber market, put more money in our fishermen's pockets and revive the copper mining industry."

Canadian Legion Convention
 Ottawa, Ont.—A Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion, to be held "as soon as convenient" and during the next session of parliament, has been decided on by the executives of that organization who have been in session in Ottawa during the past few days. Probabilities are that the convention will take place in Ottawa in January or February.

3 BIG PUZZLES CONFRONT NRA

WASHINGTON.—Three big riddles, freighted with controversy and involving vital points in the program of national recovery, are demanding solution in the immediate future by NRA officials.

Retail trade's proposal for minimum price control is to get Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's verdict, and possibly that of President Roosevelt in the near future.

Immediately behind is necessity for the Labor Board to decide whether, in arbitrating disputes, it shall require minorities of workers to abide by the will of the majority, or make it necessary in some cases for employers to arbitrate with more than one group. This involves fundamentally the question of "closed shop" unionization, hitherto regarded as banned by the industrial law.

Third, and possibly most controversial, is a proposal rapidly coming to a head, by which some officials hope to tempt capital to invest in construction and new equipment by keeping down wages for a period of one year, with a mandatory increase at that time, and further increases at stated periods later if the volume of business rises.

To Stop Fluctuation.

The idea, worked out by a group of deputies and economists to flatten out the building curve from its present series of booms and depressions every 10 years, to a 20-year, more moderate fluctuation. Its backers assert they are not proposing to reduce wages below the levels proposed by industries in codes, but rather not to raise them for the present to a compromise between industrial offers and labor demands.

Labor men already are promising fight, however, and an idea to require longer working hours than normally provided by codes is said to have dropped. The whole project has not yet been passed upon by Johnson, but will be before him soon in the construction industry codes.

The "majority rule" proposition in labor arbitration is to be presented to the Labor Board in the case of an Indianapolis mill, where a national union and a company union both have adherents. Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, board chairman, holds to the view that the democratic theory requires the minority to be bound in industrial government as well as political. Furthermore, he and several members of the arbitration tribunal believe any other basis will lead to chaos, and that when an employer goes into collective bargaining with his employees he should not have to deal with more than one set of spokesmen.

NRA Takes a Stand.

Yet NRA has taken the stand that the industrial law's declaration that workers have the right to deal through representatives of their own choosing means no worker must be bound to go along with the majority. President Roosevelt has taken official action to guarantee the benefits obtained by union bargaining for non-union employees, specially in the coal fields.

On the retail code Johnson has held a series of conferences with his own staff and a collection of Government economists. He told them frankly that their arguments against the requirements that no sale be made except at the cost of goods delivered to the merchant plus 10 per cent, did not convince him. They left a collection of briefs for his study.

Shortly the same question will be agitated in hearing on a grocer's code before the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, which is opposed to the proposition vigorously. Between the thoughts developed by the code thus marshaled by Johnson, President Roosevelt probably will have to make his final choice.

barking out at the side of the tank and thought then that it was Mr. Snyder coming over to fix the radio. He did not know. I did not hear anything further for about ten minutes, then a knock came at the door and the dog began to bark again. I called from the head of the stairs to Mr. Snyder to come in and as he came up the stairs he said there was a man down there wanted to see me. I asked him who it was and he said Mr. Chesterman. I went down to the foot of the stairs, almost to the foot and he asked me if I could leave a couple of hundred dollars. I went back upstairs and got my keys and came down and walked in front of him and unlocked the door into the office, walked in and he followed me in and shut the door. I had the baby in my arm and walked over and sat him on the ledger keeper's desk and just as I had set him down Chesterman charged me with a knife. I turned the light on when I first went in the office. I could not realize what he was trying to do but I automatically grabbed him and got hold of both his wrists and backed him over the typewriter desk when I called up stairs for help. Q. Could you identify the knife? A. I could not. All I saw was the blade, it looks like the same knife. I called a second time for help and he carried him down the stairs but the back door was locked. I did not know whether he would break the door in or not. Q. There is a spring lock on it? A. Yes, it locks when you shut it. So I hung on to Chesterman's hand with the knife in it and carried him over to the door, used my right hand to open the door. Mr. Snyder came in and took the knife out of his hand and I told him to phone the police and Dr. Middlemass. Mr. Chesterman then tried to get away again and I held him on the floor. When Mr. Snyder came out of the office after phoning I asked him if I should let Chesterman up. He said he didn't know. Mr. Chesterman said "Are you afraid of me, Bob?" Mr. Snyder said "I don't know but there is something wrong with you, George". Dr. Middlemass came in a few minutes after and I let Chesterman up. I then went into the office to phone the police again and when I came back out I found he had a gun in his hand. I called to the others standing near that he had a gun and Dr. Middlemass started to prevent him using it but he was too late. He did not speak a word after we went into the office, there was not a word said either by him or me. Q. Had you any difficulty with this man. A. I had never had any argument with him at all. Q. At any time. I never saw the man more than four or five times in the office. Twice at his farm and two or three times in the office. Are there any questions the Jury would like to ask Mr. Plimton.

Dr. Courser—We hear that no words passed in the bank, apparently Mr. Chesterman was in for a purpose and that the purpose must date back to some previous time, had he any financial difficulties with the Bank? A. He owed the Bank a considerable amount of money, and some years ago before I came here the Bank got a real estate mortgage on his property. Mr. MacKenzie, I think completed that for the Bank. And the first time I saw him he was as hostile as he could be at the bank for having taken that mortgage. Q. You had nothing personally to do with that? A. That was before I came here. Q. There would be nothing personal? A. Nothing more than that crop lease. It was last spring or fall he was in the office and I told him that as we had a mortgage on the farm we should have a crop lease on one third of the crop which I took at that time. Q. He was under a misapprehension about that lease, he figured he had signed away his farm according to what he had heard of Redgewell. A. Personally I never had a cross word with the man in my life nor he with me. Q. Mr. Peterson, it was Mr. Cuthbertson that got the mortgage. A. Yes. Mr. Bean was in the Bank Friday morning. A. No. Coroner. Is there anything else? A. No there is nothing else. There is a letter here found on the deceased addressed to the Editor of the Wainwright News (Exhibit "E"). Tom Chesterman called to identify his father's handwriting. Q. That is your father's signature? A. Yes. Coroner Collect read the letter as follows:

George Chesterman To the Editor Wainwright Star. To whom it may concern. This Bank manager gets his deserts, you see it was like this. He wrote me to come in and sign a new note which I did, but I forgot to take my reading glasses. I asked him to read out the amount on the note first and I signed. Then he asked me if I would sign another note for the same amount, one demand and one straight note. He promised me he would return personally the note they did not use, he has now returned it to me. Then he asked me if I would give a third crop of my mortgaged land. I said yes, then he went to the door of his office and asked Redgewell for 3 of them 3rd crop agreements. Redgewell brought them and handed them to me, then he said I would give a third inside out hiding the chief part about signing over to the Bank. Plimton spread them like a hand of cards and put them on the desk to me pointing to the blank saying Sign here and come to go out of the room after Redgewell. I said what is in these papers and he replied, "Oh the usual old 3rd crop agreement" and went out. I guess he didn't want to read it to me or answer questions. It was me signing my farm over to the Bank and then leasing it back to me for 1934 on a one third crop. I was alone and had nothing else to do so like a fool I signed the 3 papers. Plimton came back and picked up the papers and took them out to Redgewell and he signed as witness. Now I ought to tell Redgewell for his part in this trickery but will let him live one saw me sign "A" as I was by myself in the room, but of course to "perhaps" tell the truth that "no Redgewell is expected a job as manager, still never mind. I did sign, but I was under the impression it was a 3rd crop agreement only, not signing my farm over to the Bank. Letter passed to Jury for inspection.

Mr. REDGEWELL, sworn.

Q. You are accountant at the bank of Montreal, Wainwright? Yes. Q. You hear the letter Exhibit "E" addressed to the Wainwright News read? A. Yes. Q. The Jury is not clear as to what this is all about, what is this crop lease document, is it a lease to the farm? A. It is a first mortgage crop lease. Q. We want to find out if this man was tricked in any way that would make him angry and affect his mental condition.

Dr. Courser. We were speaking of this being a first mortgage crop lease, who is doing the leasing, is it the bank that is leasing the land back to him? A. The bank has first mortgage on the property as mortgagee and they are the lessor for one third of the crop. There is a clause in the mortgage that entitles the bank to one third of the crop. The bank is the mortgagee and is also the lessor. Coroner That is a lease from the bank to Chesterman of this land? A. Yes. Q. Who owns the land? A. Mr. Chesterman owns the land but he has given the bank a first mortgage over the land and by executing that first mortgage he gives up the right to a share of the crop the same as is outlined in that crop lease.

Mr. Forster. It is customary for the bank to do this? A. Yes. Coroner. Q. In this letter the deceased did not speak very friendly of you, did you ever have any trouble with him. A. None. Q. Did you actually see deceased sign that document, your signature is on as witness? A. I could not say at this time that I actually saw him complete his whole signature. Q. You are not sure that you saw him sign. A. I cannot say at this time. Q. We are at this time now, there is something about notes. Apparently he signed a first note and a second note that he expected returned. Do you remember anything of the note? A. His advances were carried in demand loan form. At that time a renewal was taken in demand loan form and also terminal form and he was informed at the time that one would be used and the other would be returned. Q. Are there two notes against him now or just one? A. The two renewal notes are still held in the bank but have not been used.

Mr. Bean. Are the notes not due? A. The advances were becoming doubtful and slow and we did not wish to use the term unless the account would become current. Coroner. Q. What did he sign. A. A regular mortgage crop lease for one third of the crop. Q. Did he sign his name to the bank by that lease? A. I don't think the form changes the status of the ownership of the property. Q. Is the statement about signing his farm away right or wrong? A. It was wrong. Mr. Peterson. Has the Bank a mortgage? Yes. Q. When did he sign the mortgage. A. 1928 or 1929. During Mr. Cuthbertson's time. Tom Chesterman called to identify the property taken from the body. The Jury then adjourned to consider the verdict and returned in 15 minutes with the verdict given in the beginning. Coroner Collect then declared the Court adjourned.

State Medicine

in Alberta

The following is the text of the address given by Mr. A. P. Mitchell Member for Leduc, on the subject of State Medicine at the Kiwanis lunch on recently.

State Medicine or Health Insurance has taken a very prominent place in the modern conception of the State. State Medicine originated in Germany in the year 1884 when compulsory schemes of Insurance against sickness and accident including medical treatment for the wage earning section was brought into force and operation. Later Old Age Pensions were also brought into force. That these measures were a success and met with the support of the people, is indicated by the fact that they survived the loss of reserves on the collapse of the mark in 1923.

Austria followed Germany in the adoption of Compulsory State Insurance, Great Britain and Northern Ireland followed in 1911 with the National Insurance Act. The main objects of the Act were sickness and disablement, including medical treatment and medicine, and over 10 million workers, one third women, took advantage of this Act.

An enlarged scheme of unemployment Insurance was introduced in 1920 and in 1925 provision was made for pensions and allowances to the insured and their wives at the age of 65. Northern Ireland followed with a similar Act. Under this scheme there are over 17 million insured, the number of persons interested as actual potential benefits is nearly 31½ millions.

The industrial workers of Britain and Northern Ireland are more fully protected by the State in respect of the contingencies of life than those of any other country. National or State, has succeeded, where voluntary agencies have failed.

At the present time nearly 30 countries have state medicine and it is proving a great success. All persons over the age of 16 who are employed are eligible, and this is under a compulsory Act.

For a long time there has been a form of Health Insurance in Canada and this has been sponsored by the railway companies, mine owners, manufacturing companies and municipalities. The Canadian Pacific Railway have given to their employees the service of a monthly sum deducted from the employees wages, but their scheme does not cover the dental care or hospitalization, and practically the same can be said of all other bodies that have entered the scheme.

The Western Provinces are the leaders in the State Medicine scheme in Canada. British Columbia has appointed a Commission who have issued a progress report; Manitoba has also done the same and the Committees in these Provinces are working to the bringing to their respective provinces the idea of a scheme that sooner or later will be workable and give to the people of the Province State Medical Aid. Saskatchewan, we understand, are seriously considering appointing a Commission also.

Pin-Head Pete

Pin-Head Pete said he had a dream one time. I said "One Time." "You came nearer being in a constant state of unconsciousness than any one I ever knew and live." Pin-Head replied "that he knew more when he was unconscious than I did, when I was fully awake." I halted and kicked Pin-Head on the shin. He just laughed and said "Smarty, that didn't hurt, that was my wood-n leg you kicked." He didn't have to tell me that, for by that time my leg was paining me something terrible, and I was real mad and said, "You are not only a pin-head with a wooden leg and hair lip but a disgrace to society." Pete quickly took off his wooden leg and hit me an awful crack and the next thing I knew I was in the hospital. When I awoke, who should I see, but Pin-Head, sitting there beside my bed. I said Pin-Head, go ahead with that dream, I don't know which is the worst, to listen to your chatter or get beat up with your wooden leg, but just now I prefer to listen to your chatter. So Pete started in. He said, "I dreamed I was a big ship and I had 14 cargoes of biscuits inside of me." I said it is a wonder you did not sink, and Pete said, "That is the secret for they were not the kind that YOU bake." I said go ahead. He said "They were so light that they lifted the ship out of the water and he began to float in the air and sailed away in the sky until he had a very heavenly feeling." I said go on, nothing more, Pete said "I don't know what for my opinion is that that is as near as you will ever get to heaven, but to go on with the story."

Pete said "He landed on the moon and stayed up there, until the biscuits were digested, and then he filled up with moonshine and came back to Wainwright and Pete explained that was the reason why Alberta had so many moon-light nights. I asked him if he saw any body looking at the moon when he was up there and he said "Yes, he saw Wally Prosser, Bob Trewhatha and Ed. Turner out on a dark night looking for the moon and that they saw a bright light and when they came to where it was, they discovered it was Mack's Place at Fabyan and then they got inside their moonshine and Mack was arguing with his wife. She told him it was time to get up and get to Wainwright on the switching job. The enlightenment she gave him on the subject caused the unusual illuminance and Pete said that was why it often got daylight sooner in Fabyan than in Wainwright." I said you better not ever let Mr. Mack hear that yarn. Pin Head said "H, hadn't been back since and that was healthier for him and his wooden leg over in Kootenai making his home with Uncle Blin Gump."

Will Be Spectacular Contest

Noted Pilots To Race 13,000 Miles For Big Money Prize

Next year, will witness the most spectacular event in the history of aeronautics, when world pilots will engage in a race across four continents for 13,000 miles from England to Australia for a big money prize.

Organized in connection with the Melbourne centenary celebrations, the race is expected to attract at least a score of noted pilots, who will endeavor to win the prize money of $75,000, put up by John MacRobertson, prominent Melbourne resident.

The race is to take place on Oct. 20, 1934, or thereabouts, and all entries must reach the centenary council at Melbourne by June 1, 1934. The rules stipulate that the pilots must reach Australia in 16 days or less to be eligible for the prize fund.

Fifty thousand dollars and a gold cup worth $2,500 will be awarded to the winner of the championship race. Second and third prizes, valued at $5,000 and $2,500, will also be awarded. There will also be a handicap race, for which two prizes of $10,000 and $5,000 are offered.

Each machine must carry food and water to maintain life for three days and some approved flotation gear for the crew. This applies to both races. These rules definitely rule out light planes from competing.

Pilots in the race will have to check in at Baghdad, Calcutta, Singapore, Port Darwin and Charleston.

Since most of these landing-places are 2,000 miles and more apart, it follows that aircraft competing will have to have a flying range of 2,000 miles at least to stand a good chance of being in the lead.

Transparent Only One Way

New Glass Cannot Be Seen Through From Outside

At last people may live in glass houses without pulling the shades down.

A patent has just been granted to Frederic A. Delano, head of the local park and planning commission, of Washington for a glass which is transparent only one way.

A person may look through the glass from the inside of his house and see as clearly as through ordinary window panes. People on the outside, however, cannot see through to the inside. This is caused by a diffusion of light rays by means of arranging glass materials on one surface at angles.

Among other patents granted recently are a self brushing tooth-brush, a calculating machine advising farmers how much grain he should feed to his cows to get the maximum output of milk, a device which would keep the hole in the doughnut, a ventilated seat cushion, and a collapsible gravestone.

The power driven tooth brush is hitched to the bathroom faucet and revolves through the force of water power.

Canada's Bituminous Sand Deposits

Field investigations by the Department of Mines appear to indicate that at least 50 million tons of bituminous sand can be mined by open cut methods in the northern portion of the province of Alberta. On a basis of 12 per cent. bitumen content this is equivalent to 80 million tons of bitumen or 450 million barrels.

Strict About Apple Shipments

Knew His Ancestors

During a history lesson in a suburban school, the teacher pointed out to the class that a surname often indicated the trade of the ancestors of those who bore the name. He gave the obviously simple examples of Smith, Taylor, Baker, and others.

Then he questioned one of the boys: "What were your ancestors, Webb?"

"Spiders, sir!"

Gaffer—I suppose you wouldn't believe I once did a hole in one?

Caddis—Hour, day, week, or hundred, sir?

KETCHUP CAPITAL BECOMES A LAKE PORT

Leamington, Ketchup capital of the east, on Lake Erie in the heart of the tomato and tobacco country, has been a lost lake port for two generations. Now with the completion of a new harbor by the Dominion Government, the Ontario town again becomes a shipping centre on the east-west lake-and-rail route. ## SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

Golden Text: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor, love therefore is the fulfillment of the law."

Romans 13:10

Lesson: Romans 13:12-15:3.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 68:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

The Conduct of a Christian, 13:12-14.—The night is far spent, the day is at hand, Paul writes. Various interpretations of this metaphor may be given. The "night" is the Lord's absence, the "day" is to be ushered in by his appearing, says one; the "night" is present obscurity in contrast to the eternal day, says another; the "night" is the time of local government and because of its critical position on a strait between the two seas, must have been guarded by a strong military force. The image which always rises before my mind when I read the passage is this: I fancy Paul, after a day spent in hard work, partly in tent-making and partly in preaching and in visitation among his converts, writing far through the night to the Christians in Rome, and just at daybreak, when the sentinels are changing guard, and the morning light glances on their armor, while at the same time the last sounds of detached revelers in the street fall upon his ears, expressing himself in the now familiar words, "the night is far spent, the day is at hand."

John S. Henson

Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness (some of which are enumerated in the next verse), and let us put on the armor of light. Be strong in the Lord and in the strength of His mighty power, put on the whole armor of God, Ephesians 6:10-11. The description of this armor is given in Ephesians 6:13. See also 2 Corinthians 6:7; 10:4; 1 Thessalonians 5:8.

You can obey the command to put off the works of darkness when you have obeyed the command to put on the armor of light. Evil thoughts are driven out by first filling the mind with good thoughts.

Paul speaks of conduct as "a walk," some thirty-three times in his letters. Let us walk becomingly, as in the day, he urges, and then he enumerates some of the evils which a Christian will not commit. Dr. James Stirling bids us notice that strife and jealousy are classed with the coarse indulgences of the animal nature and make a climax; the contentious, evil ways man ranks with the drunkard and the debauchee.

But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lust thereof.

The Great Heavies, 14:7-9.—The thought of our accountability to God alone (verse 6) brings life and death and the judgment day before Paul. In verse 7-12 he so portrays these great and inspiring realities as to make all acrimonious controversy over day and diet seem trivial and wicked."

E. J. Bosworth

For none of us liveth to himself, and none dieth to himself. "Man's whole life belongs, not to himself, but to his Lord. It does not mean 'every man's conduct affects others for better or worse, whether he will or not'; it means, 'no Christian is his own end in life; what is always present to his mind, as the rule of his conduct, is the will and the interest of his Lord.' The same holds of his dying. He does not choose either the time or the mode of it, like a Roman Stoic, to please himself. He dies when the Lord wills, as the Lord wills, and even by his death glorifies God." We must recognize the lordship of Christ, for we are his allies in life and in death, for by dying and living again Christ became, the Lord of the dead and the living.

Would Mean A Saving

Twelve vacancies in the Senate now. Why not leave them vacant and gradually abolish the Senate in this way? Incidentally it may be noted that each vacant senatorship means a saving of at least $4,000 a year to the taxpayers, states Niagara Falls Review.

Precarious Travel Is

Blocking Railway Sale

Japan Not Anxious To Buy Line From Russia

"What with bandits tearing up the tracks, firing on trains and carrying away passengers for ransom, the Russians are having quite a time trying to sell the Chinese Eastern Railway to Japan. Negotiations have been going on for months. Bids and counter-bids have been offered. The great stumbling block is the precarious state of travel on the line.

In five days the track was torn up five times, trains were fired on three times, railway stations were set afire twice, railway buildings were attacked 13 times, and 150 railway employees were kidnapped.

Armed gangs attack the trains and crimes of violence are frequent. There were 76 attacks by armed desperadoes in 1930, 119 in 1931, 704 in 1932, and this year there have been 247 attacks to date.

With all these goings on, the Japanese wonder what kind of a railway they are dicker for anyway. If the gangs and bandits keep up their activities here will not be much left. It is an indication of the lawless state in Manchuria and a condition with which the Japanese have been trying to cope.—Border Cities Star.

Working For Unemployed

Women Of English Golf Club Make Clothes For Poor

Needles and thimbles displace drivers and niblicks once a week in the women's section of the North Middlesex Golf Club. For two hours each Monday women members meet to make clothes for the poor and unemployed. More than 140 new garments were made in the first fortnight. The idea for the sewing afternoon resulted from a speech of the Prince of Wales, who said, "If only every woman would work two hours a week for the Personal League what a marvellous response there would be.

SYNOPSIS
Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful commercial artist, and Peter Anson, a struggling sculptor, meet in an art class and fall in love. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, but she is not to share in their fortune when she comes of age. They are faced with the problem of "marriage or career" and Camilla does not want to let Peter down when he has so much promise as a sculptor. At an art school dance, Gus Matson, Peter's roommate, who is jealous of Peter's success, takes Camilla out on the lawn to tell her "something she should know about Peter." Gus tells Camilla Peter is a cheat, that he only wants her money, and that he, Gus, loves her himself. At that moment, Peter appears on the scene and knocks Gus flat. On the way home from the party Camilla tells Peter they are going to do something about their problem.

CHAPTER XIV
"We are going to be married, soon, Peter, darling," Camilla told him. "Why—why, honey, we shouldn't dare to!" incredulously. "Afraid, Peter?" "For myself?" No, of course not. "For whom?" "Why—for you! I couldn't take care of you." "I shouldn't let you. I'll take care of myself—until you succeed." "I couldn't let you do that," he protested with finality. "Why couldn't you, Peter? I'll have to do that, anyway, whether I am your wife or not. Why can't I be your wife, too?" "My wife!" he repeated, with awe. "You would—take that chance, dear, before I have proved to you that I can do anything worth while?" "I'd take bigger chances than that to have you and your love. Why not? There is the risk?" "Well—suppose I failed, after all? Suppose I never really amount to much?"

CUNARD ANCHOR-DONALDSON

"You would still be you, gently. Yes, I suppose so."
"Well, Peter, it's you I love and want. Nothing else makes a lot of difference to me, except that I want for you everything that you want to be, for your sake as much as mine."
"Sweetheart!" he gave her a double demonstration of his appreciation. "What a girl!" he exclaimed and laughed tremendously. She clung to him, weak with emotion and reluctant to lose the sweet ecstasy with which it filled her. She was part of the night, its beauty and silence and fragrance, there in his arms with his lips upon hers.

"Don't let me go!" she whispered. "I wish I needn't—ever!" vehemently.
"Then why don't you want to marry me, Camilla?"
"What do I only dare!"
"Then you shall. And it won't make a bit of difference to either of us, financially. We shall live just as we had planned before we met." "But I can't even provide you a decent place to live," helplessly.

"You won't need to. I just told you that we'll live exactly as we had planned before, except that we shall belong to each other."
"You mean—not even live together?"
"That would be fatal to your work, Peter, and the last thing we should think of doing. I shouldn't consider living with you until you are established. You must not think of talking on the responsibilities of a home until then. But that need not keep us from finding a little happiness."

"That isn't the way it should be," he objected. "So stubborn, darling," she sighed. "Not the way it should be, but better than nothing, isn't it? Better than waiting for years—and years—" wistfully.

"You almost convince me," he drew her close again, eagerly. "Are you sure you wouldn't regret it? I can tell you how much it would mean to me!"
"You needn't, because I know. But I'll marry you, Peter, only on my terms—that you are to assume no responsibilities whatever, and that we shall live apart until you can afford to take care of me. It is your work I am thinking of, Peter."

"More than of me?"
"Of course not. After us. But it means everything to us, doesn't it?"
"That's right."
"Suppose we had to wait five years—ten—to have each other—for love—with one long embrace," she gave him her first voluntary kiss before she continued, "just because of a few stupid dollars that we should need to live together in the regular way that convention follows."

"I know. I suppose it would be impossible, anyway," he admitted. "We are not children. You are almost twenty-one and I am twenty-five. Camilla, we should know where we want to do. But if you insist upon taking care of yourself, why not combine like other fifty-five marriages?"
"Too many of those fail, Peter. No, if we marry, our problem requires an individual solution. When a girl tries to be a business woman, a wife and a housekeeper, she almost always fails in one of the three, and that one is usually in being a wife. It would be even worse for a man like you."

"In the first place, you would work alone and have more time to brood over trifles. You are sensitive and would feel your irresponsibility more than the average man. If we lived together, your studio would have to be our home. When I rushed off to my office-hour job and neglected anything, you would feel that you should do the work because your work tied you to no definite hours. More and more, you would become the mat at home wearing the apron and feeling sorry for your tired working wife. No, Peter, it never would do for us to live together until you have made good."

"How can you be in love and yet so practical?" he wondered with tender amusement.
"That's not being as practical as it sounds," she laughed softly. "Most of all, I want to keep the romance of our marriage, Peter. We can just go on being lovers—having the excitement and expectation of seeing each other after days of separation. Our holidays—they will be, such happy holidays when we are together for a little while. And those hours together will be so much more precious to us housekeeping problems and worries. We shall meet and part as strange lovers. Won't that be much more romantic?"

"But the parting?" he objected. "You're not a bit like Romeo, are you? You know he said that parting is such sweet pleasure."
"What did he know about it? He wasn't there. He was not crowded with never parted from you."
She laughed happily and they kissed again. Presently, she said slowly,

"There's another thing, about our waiting for years and years to marry. Do you remember what you said that first night we talked together, about wanting a thing so intensely and so long that finally when you could have it, you didn't want it?"
"Why, Camilla, you don't mean that we could change our minds ever about wanting each other?"
"It could happen, Peter."

"Oh, sure, even lots of people who marry, change their minds about each other afterward. But not us."
"But that isn't what I mean, dear. I don't think we ever could do that. If we have each other and share everything as we go along. We have to develop together then. But if we have to live on hope alone and go our separate ways, we may drift apart in our interests—well, and find that we are not what each other wanted. There's a phrase running in my mind that someone wrote. 'The sickening pang of love deferred.' Doesn't that sound ominous?"

"Whatever it is, we are going to take no chances with it," Peter declared.
"But, say," she held him off suddenly. "I'm doing all the arguing about this. It sounds as if I were trying to make you marry me again—your will."

"Darling, you know that isn't true. You are only convincing me that you are willing to take a bigger chance with me than I have any right to ask of you. Yet I am selfish enough to ask you. Even though I love you better than anything in life," he told her tenderly.

"Because you love me better than anything in life," she breathed him. (To Be Continued.)

Launching Hunt For Fortune Of Castaway

Messages In Bottle Picked Up At Sea Afford Only Clue

Two messages and a map in a bottle picked up on a lonely beach on the coast of Mexico have brought George P. Bradley to Washington to organize an expedition to seek for buried treasure.

The messages tell of a Robinson Crusoe castaway; Chinese gibson; shipwreck; escape with the treasure; the wait for death on a South Pacific isle.

So far, Bradley has found four people who are willing to take a chance on there being a buried loot on the other side of the world and have signed up under Bradley as an expedition.

The first message, dated August 18, 1897, reads:
"Whoever finds this which I am about to cast into the sea—help—I am cast away on an island whose latitude is (deleted by Bradley) and longitude (deleted by Bradley)."

"For three years I have been a prisoner of Chinese pirates, who have raided several pearlers and other vessels and have accumulated a vast amount of wealth, which I have saved from the wreck and buried under a rock on the south end of the island. I have, over $400,000 worth of gold and silver coins and a stone jug over half full of pearls. Eleven perfect black pearls of immense size and 143 others that are over one-half inch in diameter. The rest are smaller."

"I am all alone and cannot live much longer. So I only ask the reader to give me one of the black pearls and $10,000 of the money to my little daughter, Nellie Farley, who lives there with a Mrs. Susan McCarty, in Stockton, Cal. Find her, please, and the rest is yours, and may God bless you."

"JAMES FARLEY.
"Aug. 18, 1897."

The second letter, with a map reads:
"There is no water on this island, which is very small, and I have no food. Please, but please, trip my little girl when you get what I have hidden."

"Many other valuable things are buried nearby. There are letters with the money that will tell you all. I thank God my sufferings are over."

Bradley says he has had the writing tested by a chemist in the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa., who found it to be the piece of a tropical tree.

Wales Wants Canadian Cattle

Fortnightly Service Of Cargoes To Cardiff Is Advocated

A determined attempt is being made to revive Cardiff's import trade in Canadian cattle and to secure a fortnightly fortnightly service of cargoes into the port.

During June a consignment of 540 beasts from Ontario and Saskatchewan arrived, and most of them were sold by private treaty, Donald Munro of Montreal, who handled the business, said that Cardiff was finely situated to deal with this traffic and act as distributing centre not only for South Wales, but also for the Midlands and the south and west of England.

At present the only extensive imports of cattle from Canada are those into Glasgow and Birkenhead. If the new venture succeeds the ships bringing the cattle will be loaded with South Wales products for the Canadian market.

Describes New Discovery

Oil Is Almost Pure Vitamin "A" States Its Maker

A new, pale yellow oil, 9,200 times more potent than ordinary cod liver oil, was described to the Ohio-Michigan section of the Chemical Society. "The oil is almost pure vitamin 'A,'" said its maker, Prof. Harry N. Holmes, of Oberlin University. It represents America's stake in an international scientific race to the first with isolation of vitamin "A," the disease-resistant builder.

At the university of Zurich, Dr. Karrer has produced a similar oil, 10,000 times as powerful as cod liver oil; while three Englishmen have reached Vitamin "A" concentrations in squalor oils 6,500 times and 800 times stronger than the fish oil.

Professor Holmes gets his near-vitamin "A" from halibut liver oil.

"A really good poker player can make a lot of money apart from his ordinary work," he was told. This is the first time we knew that a really good poker player needed to have any ordinary work.

WELL, JACK, I GOT THE ORDER! YES, FIRST PUT AS A PIPER. . . . YOU SET IT ALWAYS GET ASPIRIN WHEN I WANT QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Real ASPIRIN Starts Taking Hold in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is still undiscovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN's quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

New Zealand Citizens Accomplish Big Task

Have Rebuilt City Of Napier Destroyed By Earthquake

On February 3, 1931, the City of Napier, in New Zealand, was completely destroyed by an earthquake which brought its buildings down in piles of wood, brick and stone.

Its 21,000 odd inhabitants, who had just begun to experience the benefits of settlement in one of the Dominion's latest towns, were ruined, their houses and their means of earning a living being swept away simultaneously. Earthquake and fire demolished both public and private buildings. The Sunday after the quake a great public service was held in the open air at which the citizens of Napier pledged themselves to rebuild their city.

Today they have accomplished their self-appointed task. Upon the ruins of the old Napier a new city has arisen, the newest city in the world. Wide thoroughfares, commodious four-line traffic; public buildings of the most up-to-date character; new factories, banks and hotels are to be seen on every hand. And the new city has been built with an eye to harmony of architectural design and with the object of associating the fullest sense of security with a high standard of town-planning.

Narrow back streets have been eliminated. Telephone, telegraph and power standards have vanished from the streets into conduits. Napier stands today a credit to the indomitable spirit of the people of New Zealand and a model for others to copy who are busy building cities in the Empire. Town planning, well directed and controlled, did it—Montreal Star.

Legend Of A Jewel

Famous Koh-i-Nor Diamond Has Strange History

The legend that if a British king ever wears the Koh-i-Nor diamond, India will be lost forever to the British Empire, is related in "Jewels of Romance and Renown" by Miss Mary Abbott.

When the gem, said to have adorned the sword of the warrior Afrasiab in 3,000 B.C. was given to Queen Victoria after the annexation of the Punjab in 1850, the East India Company hinted that they would like her to wear it as a piece of her personal jewellery rather than in the crown jewels.

So Queen Victoria bequeathed the Koh-i-Nor, not to her son, King Edward, but to his wife, Queen Alexandra, and gradually the legend grew up that if a king-emperor wore the jewel, India would be lost to the British Empire forever.

John Well Preserved Evidently dropped by a voyager more than a century ago, a copper coin or token struck in the year 1816 in honor of Sir Isaac Brock, has been recovered from the river bed of Belleville. The token was in perfect condition, having by night, well preserved in the silt at the bottom of the stream.

The King and Queen, who have so many tastes in common, do not share the same views about long train journeys. Her Majesty is said to dislike travelling by night, while the King considers it waste of time to travel in the daytime.

Little Helps For This Week

"God, even our Father, who has loved us and given us everlasting comfort and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts and establish you in every good word and work." — 2 Thessalonians 2:16, 17.

When sorrow all our heart would ask, We need not shun our daily task. And hide ourselves for calm. The herbs we seek to heal our woes Familiar by our pathway grow. Our common air is balmy. — J. Keble.

When we turn away from some duty or some fellow creature saying our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may sever the line on which a divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man, and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door. There is a plan working in our lives, and if we keep our hearts quiet and our eyes open it all works together; and if we do not it all fights together and keeps on fighting till it comes right somehow, somewhere. — Annie Keary.

Mail Stolen From Liner

Three Registered Sacks Disappeared Between New York And Plymouth

Three sacks of registered mail, said to contain several thousand dollars worth of negotiable bonds and other securities, were stolen while the new United States liner "Manhattan" was on high seas federal authorities admitted. The loss was discovered when the Manhattan, which left New York September 13, arrived at Plymouth, England, on September 18. The missing sacks were part of a shipment of 190 sacks. Those stolen were consigned to England, Holland and Poland.
